To whom it may concern

Setco Automotive is a global manufacturer of commercial vehicle clutch systems, under the 'Lipe' brand name. The company has facilities in the UK, USA and India, together manufacturing over 50,000 clutch units per month.

In 2012 the manufacturing site for Setco Automotive (UK) Ltd. decided to gain accreditation to OHSAS 18001 with the ambitious target of completing stage 1 assessment within 4 months of project commencement. To achieve this target it was essential to have the support of a competent and experienced consultant. Having had prior experience of working with Colin Smith for lean manufacturing implementation, we had no hesitation in calling upon Colin's services once again for the OHSAS 18001 project. As anticipated, Colin provided highly effective and professional support to deliver the project in the required time frame.

Colin has demonstrated excellent depth of knowledge in a wide range of areas across health and safety, environmental and quality management systems. We would have no hesitation in recommending Colin to any prospective client.
